

Learning to Be On Fire for Life

Congratulations you are well on your way to being on fire for life! I hope you enjoyed your time getting to know yourself, God, and others on a more intimate level. I hope that you have been able to find more peace, trust, strength, and discipline in your life, as well. And most importantly I hope that your life has been made better in some small way for having participated in this journey.

It is well with my soul! Invite God into your heart, mind, body and soul today. Ask Him to dwell there and influence the decisions and actions you take.

“Lord, over the past 9 weeks I have learned to wait and be still. I have learned more about myself, You and others. I have learned to love a little deeper, to ask for help, to see life like the innocence of a child, to be more merciful. I have learned that my words can carry tremendous power. I have learned that at times an open door can help us see and understand situations we might not have otherwise understood. I have felt the power of forgiveness and learned more about how to hold joy in my heart. Lord, I listened to the birds as they sung out to one another, stopping to listen for the others response and watched as the squirrels chattered and gathered food for their family, stopping to take a break every now and again. Lord, help me to be like the birds of the air, stopping to listen to one another and the squirrels who even in their hurriedness to gather food for their family still stop to breathe and take a break. Continue to work in and through me to radiate your deep, deep love and to continue to grow more and more on fire for life.”

Final thoughts as you finish this 9 week series:
